

Dialogue

Dialogue implies both a method of guided conversation in groups, as well as a fundamental attitude in all forms of communication and interpersonal contact.

Cross-Cultural Dialogue

Situation:	The mutual trust, conversational competence and thus the ability to cooperate efficiently are insufficiently developed in one area due to the intercultural constellation.
Objective:	Improve the lasting ability of multicultural groups to communicate and cooperate effectively across cultural boundaries.
Method:	Conversational process in groups, if necessary with accompanying exercises, see The Dialogue approach .
Setting:	In the initial workshop (2-3 days) the basic concepts will be introduced and practiced in small groups. In between these practical exercises first dialogue sessions. Further sessions (ca. 4h), at intervals to be agreed upon (1-2 months).
Link:	Can also be applied as a method in the area of Intercultural Division Development .